Artist Statement: I'm a local San Antonio woodworker artist. As a child, trees always held a special place in my heart. If I wasn't climbing them, I could be found under the shaded canopy along the Rio Grande. Now, as a woodworker, I hold a special passion for creating books and boxes using wood from trees around the world. My mission is to showcase the heart and soul of every wood brought before me. I wish to express its life and bring into light that every tree once had a life of its own. Wood can be found across the world in multi colors and grain patterns. My books are all natural in the vast array of colors. No stain or dye is used to enhance the beauty. Deep in the Brazilian valley comes Purple Heart. In the vast desert of Africa, Zebra wood is found. I take these woods and combine them to make my books. For the spine, I use a special router bit to cut out the concave curvature patterns. For the pages a certain wood when specialty cut resembles pages from a book. For the cover I use exotic woods with reflective figures or colorful grain. The combination of these woods put together make a beautiful balance of color and grain making them a unique one of a kind keepsake or jewelry holder for years to come.
